MANAGING STRATEGIC ENTERPRISE SYSTEMS AND E-GOVERNMENT INITIATIVES IN ASIA

A Casebook

edited by Pan Shan-Ling (National University of Singapore)

“The organisations and problems discussed in the cases are undoubtedly worthy and, in general, interesting reading ... It is a useful compilation of non-US or European case material. An educator teaching Information Systems at the MBA level might find the book useful to students as a secondary textbook or as supplementary reading material.”

Journal of E-Government

This book presents a socio-technical view of strategic information systems issues such as enterprise systems implementation and management, knowledge management, customer relationship management, and e-government initiatives.

The book provides regional (Asia-Pacific) coverage highlighting empirical case studies – involving both private and public organizations – of strategic information systems practices covering both the developed and developing economies. These in-depth, well-written case materials will be helpful to organizations and government agencies planning to implement enterprise systems and e-government initiatives. These cases can also be beneficial to classroom teaching and discussions.
