Subject: Postdoc Fellowships at Tel Aviv University

Dear Friends,

Please distribute this among your best and brightest..

Happy New Jewish year 5769!
Ron.

Postdoctoral Fellowships in computational biology:

Two postdoctoral fellowships are available at the group of Prof. Ron Shamir, School of Computer Science, Tel Aviv University. The group specializes in design, analysis and implementation of algorithms for molecular and systems biology and in human disease. Much of the work is done in tight collaboration with leading experimental labs.

We are seeking inventive, independent, and highly motivated researchers. Postdoc candidates must have a strong quantitative background, a PhD in Computer Science, Mathematics, Physics or Engineering, and an established publication record. A strong background in bioinformatics and algorithms is an advantage.

For more details about Shamir's group see <http://acgt.cs.tau.ac.il>

Please email a CV, a list of publications and a one-page summary of current and past research to
